

As a young scientist and relatively new in the field of futures studies, I learned a lot during this conference at Yeditepe University. Especially the personal discussions with experienced researchers in the field gave me a lot of inspiration and motivation to continue my research on the link between foresight and policy. I think this conference will be the first in a long and very useful tradition of foresight conferences at Yeditepe University.

Wouter van der Torre
Scientific Council for government Policy in the Netherlands (WRR)
torre@wrr.nl